Standard expansion axed

Supers petition board...

BY ED LEPOMA

It took a little arm twisting before Hancock County supervisors reluctantly decided to ask the school board for more land at Standard to expand the rubbish site.

The decision was made at the urging of District 3 Supervisor Lisa Coward, who represents the Board on the Hancock County Solid Waste District.

At the District meeting last week, Coward reported there was no progress made after supervisors met in a closed-door session with three school board members the week before. But, she said, resolutions were being prepared in which super-to closure...I just want some kind of direction..."*

visors would pitch several options to the school board in

...Board's answer : a resounding NO!

BY ED LEPOMA

Hancock County supervisors have received a quick answer on proposals to expand and extend the life of the rubbish site at Standard.

The Hancock County School

District Monday night voted:
NO, NO, NO, NO.

The unexpected turn of events led Les Fillingame, chairman of the Solid Waste District, to level harsh criticism at the five-member school board.

actions to the very people thing are the taxpayers," said Fillingame. "Any alternative to Standard at this point is going to be a great expense and inconvenience to every citizen of Hancock County."

Fillingame added, "I'm very disappointed that the School Board allowed that 100 acres to be a part of the county's solid waste plans for so many years during the permitting process only to withdraw it at the 11th hour after thousands of taxpayers dollars have been spent.

will have to justify their actions to the very people that

New Bay Council meets

BY BETSY GAGNET

The new Bay St. Louis City Council held its regular meeting Tuesday night beginning with a welcome from council president Jim Rutherford to the two new members as well as the returning ones.

It was the first regular meeting for council members Carleen Murphy Moran and Connie Payne Lampley. Returning to the council were Rutherford, Jim Thrifflay and Tad Black.

Rutherford will serve the first 40 weeks as council president with Black as vice-president. Following Rutherford, the other council members will alternate serving as council president in 41 week intervals.

Among the action taken by the council was the approval of several department heads recommended by Mayor Eddie Favre, including the appointment of a new fire chief.

Robert Gavagnie has been named fire chief. Gary Maurice and Brian Adam, formerly co-chiefs, will serve as assistant fire chiefs.

Gavagnie, a former Bay St.
Louis fire chief, was brought in for his administrative background, Favre explained following the meeting.

The two assistant chiefs will have split responsibilities dealing with such things as equipment, training, fire prevention, building inspections and record maintenance.

Frank McNeil was again approved as police chief, a position he has held since July 1991.

Robert Parker was appointed City Clerk/Director of Administration and Charlene Rutledge was appointed Deputy Municipal Clerk.

Ron Vanney will continue as the Director of Public Works, a position he has held since January 1992.

John Scaffery was reappointed City Attorney and Don Rafferty was appointed Special City Attorney.

Russell E. Elliott was named to the city's Planning and Zoning Commission.

The members of the Municipal Election Committee, Jay Lagasse, Conrad Mauffray, and Marilyn Smith, were reappointed.

Moran was named to the policy-making board of Gulf Regional Planning and Buzz Olsen was named to the Technical Advisory Board.

Pass officials take office

BY RICHARD MEEK

Pass Christian has become a unified, financially sound community no longer under the watchful eye of the state auditor's office.

That was the message Pass Mayor Billy McDonald delivered during his inauguration address on Monday. McDonald and aldermen Jeff Emerson, Michael Antoine, Margaret Jean Kalif, Yvonne "Vonnie" Bodenschatz and Leo "Chipper" McDermott were sworn in by Judge Jason Floyd Jr. during ceremonies in a crowded City Hall.

McDonald began his first full-term as Pass Christian's leader. He was elected in a special election in October of 1995 to serve out a two-year term when previous Mayor Ted Lawyer resigned, citing medical reasons.

"One of the things we have is unity in the city of Pass Christian," McDonald said. "You see the mayor and the board working together."

"We don't always agree," he added, "but we are intelligent enough to sit down and discuss the problems. We'll hash things out and make Pass Christian the type of place you want it to be."

Downtown Waveland plans unveiled

BY RICHARD MEEK

Once the economic hub of Waveland, Coleman Avenue has become a deteriorating scrapbook of memories past.
Deserted and boarded buildings are the norm, and businesses close as quickly as they open.

Determined to revive the aging area, Waveland citizen Alison Anderson has devised a plan to revamp Coleman Avenue, a street that has as its anchors City Hall and the library and is bordered by the Mississippi Sound to its south.
Anderson's vision is to transform the street into a traditional, southern style fishing village.

"(Coleman Avenue) should be the community centerpiece," Anderson said.

She unveiled preliminary plans, saying the fishing village theme was chosen because of Waveland's location adjacent to the Sound. She added that her plans are preliminary, and not meant to be a quick-fix.

"This is 10 to 20 years, at least," Anderson said of her model village.

Anderson envisions a street where businesses feature the same fishing village-type facades. Included in her plans are paved sidewalks from Central Avenue to Beach Boulevard.

She said weekly rentals would be successful on Coleman Avenue because of the proximity to the beach. Spinoff businesses from the rentals, Anderson said, could include dry cleaners, a bakery and video rental stores.

She said the coalition's expectations are realistic, that they don't see Coleman Avenue as a major attraction. However, she said because of the Garfield Ladner Pier, which is scheduled for a major expansion, and the beach, the street can once again become a center of economic activity that will also include restaurants.

"We see the pier as an important part (of the Coleman Avenue revitalization)," she said.

Anderson said one item that could be addressed in the near future is the paving of the sidewalks the entire length of the street. She added that the street would be more attractive to nearby beach tourists if businesses would add awnings over the sidewalks.

"You want to make the sidewalk alluring, to make people want to walk it," she said. "Visual interest does promote eco-

USM archives on website

A recent addition to the University of Southern Mississippi Archives website is a single alphabetical list of all the department's historical manuscripts collections.

The listing, which is part of the overall USM University Libraries website, allows researchers to use the find command or their browser's equivalent to identify individuals and organizations whose papers are housed in the USM archives, said Dr. Bob Tusa, USM archivist. The researcher can then click on the collection title to access that collection's online manuscript register, she said.

"The register is a detailed inventory of the contents of each collection and is a significant research document in itself," Tusa said.

"Not all of the manuscript registers are on line yet, but the archive's staff is working toward that objective."

Tusa said she "likes to brag that the USM University Libraries is the only library or archives in the state that offers researchers in primary sources access to online catalog records and online registers of manuscript collections."

She pointed out that both the archives and the Lena deGrummond Children's Literature Collection offer this type of electronic access to manuscript holdings.

USM's archives website can be accessed at <http://www.lib.usm.edu/archives.html>

To reach Tusa by phone, call (601) 266-4348.

Fires mar weekend

BY RICHARD MEEK
Hancock County Fire Marshal is investigating a rash of fires, one deadly, over the past week.

A Waveland man was killed on Saturday when his house at 407 St. Jude St. burned. Waveland Police Chief Jimmy Varnell said Michael Muir, 26, was killed in the fire.

Varnell said an emergency call was received that the structure was on fire. The fire units responded and quickly put out the fire. Firefighters found Muir in full cardiac arrest upon searching the residence, Varnell said. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Hancock Medical Center.

Pate ruled the fire accidental. He said a barbecue pit had been placed on a table in a screened-in porch.

An autopsy revealed Muir died of smoke inhalation.

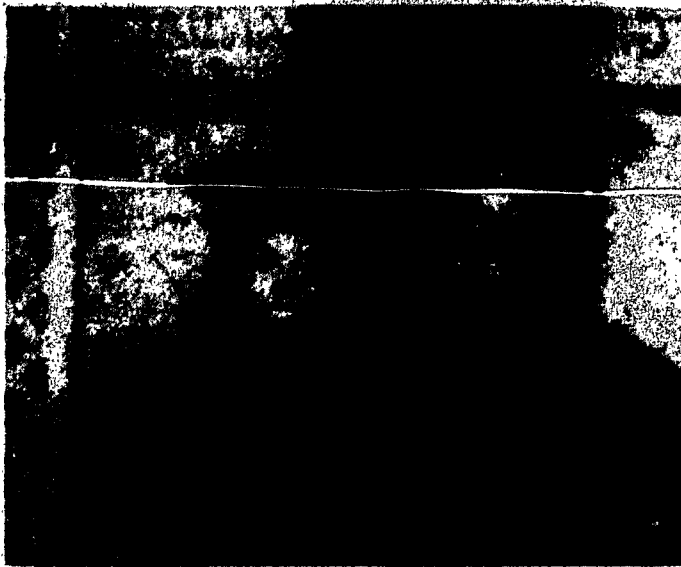

Pate said he expects to make an arrest soon in a fire that damaged property at the Hare Krishna farm in northern Hancock County Saturday morning. Pate said the fire destroyed a float, two tractors, a truck, some hay and a barn.

Pate said the state fire marshal and the Hancock County Sheriff's Office are assisting in the investigation. Anyone with information should contact Nathan Hoda at 467-5101 or Pate at 466-4709.

Pate is also investigating a fire early Sunday on East Jones in Bayside Park.

Student, teacher graduate together

Jennifer Clark of Pass Christian is a 1993 graduate of Our Lady Academy. She must have enjoyed her religion classes at OLA, because she chose to major in religious studies at Loyola University in New Orleans. On May 18 she and one of her former OLA religion teachers graduated together, she receiving her BA and John Switzer receiving the MA, both degrees in the field of religious studies. Clark has enlisted in the Jesuit Volunteer Corps and will spend a year in ministry in Fairbanks, Alaska. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Clark. Switzer serves as chair of the OLA Religious Studies Department.

Project shows how to use writing in the classroom

Pamela Cummings looked out over the eight faces in front of her.

The seventh grade regular and accelerated English teacher at Hawkins Junior High School in Hattiesburg had a little different audience for her lesson today.

Cummings was teaching a session on using writing in the classroom to colleagues—other teachers from across south Mississippi—rather than the teens who usually populate her courses.

"What is the setting for this story," Cummings asked. "What about the characters?"

Cummings had chosen a story from the book Chicken Soup for the Soul but had deleted the ending. It was up to the teacher-students to come up with an ending for a motivational story on how broadcaster Les Brown got his start. After writing their own version, members of the class, some ventional forms) as a class, we can create—say a math book—using writing," said Pace. Some of the techniques taught as part of the project—like keeping a journal—are already part of Pace's curriculum.

"But being here and learning from the participants gives you new ways to use what you're already doing in the classroom."

Jeanne Ezell, an instructor in USM's Department of English, and Joann Wynn, administrative assistant to the director of student services for the Hattiesburg Public School System, are directing the project in Hattiesburg, which has been going on since 1986. The project at USM Gulf Coast is in its fourth year.

Each summer, the project "evolves" to reiterate the basics and add new aspects to the project, Ezell said.

"Last year we began to place more emphasis on dialect issues in the classroom and this year, we're continuing that emphasis and deal with dialectal issues in a classroom in positive ways."

The South Mississippi Writing Project is one of 40 nationwide.

For information on the project, contact Ezell or Wynn at (601) 266-5066.

Correctional officers train through MGCCC

About 25 participants from seven counties recently participated in the Jail-Correctional Officer Training Course held at Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College's Applied Technology and Development Center.

Offered through the college's Workforce Development program, the 80-hour course was developed by curriculum from the National Sheriffs Association and the National Institute for Corrections.

During the two weeks training, participants covered such areas as the correctional law system, searches, evidence, crime scene, suicide prevention, liability and security. Students also received some of the training at the Harrison County Jail.

A grant from the State Department of Education, Vocational-Technical Education Division helps to keep the cost of the program to a minimal $45 per person. Additional training sessions will be held July 14-25, Sept. 8-19, Oct. 20-31, Nov. 10-21 and Dec. 1-12.

By completing the course, participants receive a Certificate of Completion from the Harrison County Sheriff's Department Jail-Correctional Academy, Certificate of Training from the Mississippi Board of Law Enforcement Officers Standards and Training and 8.0 Continuing Education Units from Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College.

For details or registration, call instructor Lt. Rupert Lacy at (601) 896-3000.

CLUES CHOICES

By Ellis C. Cuevas

I guess we were lucky just to have a few showers over the long July 4th weekend.

It seems that the weather was just what we needed. The showers were thunderous, starting on Monday afternoon.

This was followed with showers Tuesday morning and afternoon.

The shower Friday evening really cooled things down. I was told that it was a cool front that went through the area.

I do know that it sure was a hot weekend, especially the times when there was not a breeze blowing.

The festival, fishing rodeo and fair workers all have to be commended for their work during severe conditions.

Several folks I talked to said the heat was almost unbearable.

I am hoping that every event was very successful.

Today from 9 a.m. to noon and also on Thursday, July 31, from 1 to 4 p.m., counselors for the Small Business Development Center will be at the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce office.

They will be at the chamber's office to offer counseling to small business owners. The chamber's office is located at 412 Highway 90, #6 Colonial Plaza, Bay St. Louis.

This is another of the many services offered by the Chamber of Commerce to the community.

America sure has made a big step in space exploration with Pathfinder.

NASA's officials all have big smiles on their faces as they speak about the discoveries being made on Mars.

The photos appear to be so spectacular, just as if one were there taking the pictures.

The feat of Pathfinder at Mars marks a space accomplishment that is only surpassed by Armstrong's walk on the moon.

A thing that is interesting is the way Sojourner is traveling among the rocks and taking chemical fingerprints of the substances.

America has come a long way in space exploration. We, who live in this area need to remember the role the test facility has played and continues to play in space for America.

As youngsters we studied about Mars and other planets, now many of the text books have to be revised to update the findings of Pathfinder.

I feel that those of us who have been around for a few years have been blessed to witness some of the greatest discoveries ever for mankind.

I just wonder what will be next.

THE CHAIR FROM REVERENDS PAUL

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Fordice fails to acknowledge Moore's accomplishments

Sometime ago it began to occur to me that Kirk Fordice had become virtually irrelevant to the governance of Mississippi.

Last week it became amply apparent that Fordice is totally irrelevant. The final proof came when Attorney General Mike Moore brought $3.6 billion to the state in his remarkable settlement of the state's lawsuit against the big tobacco companies.

Forget for a moment Moore's biggest Mississippi antagonist in pushing the tobacco lawsuit was from the beginning the governor of his own state who did everything he could to stop it.

It's how Fordice behaved after Moore brought back a huge pile of money, like manna from heaven, to the "poor" state of Mississippi. Everyone else seemed overjoyed, but Fordice was still snarling about Moore having made the cigarette industry pay dearly for its sins against the health of Mississippians. Not one word of acknowledgment came from Fordice that his Attorney General had accomplished something bordering on a miracle.

In terms of money alone, the $3.6 billion brought to the state by Moore is the equivalent of one-and-a-half times the state's entire annual general fund budget. Any governor, especially the governor of the state with the nation's lowest per capita income and one of the thinnest tax bases would have welcomed Moore as though he brought back the Holy Grail.

But not good ole Kirk. He kept on pouting, totally ignoring what such a massive infusion of new income can mean in terms of providing services the state could never have afforded otherwise.

Isn't it remarkable that this is the second gold mine of new income for the state that has been brought in during Fordice's tenure, neither of which he had anything to do with? The first, of course, was the gaming casino boom which happened despite Fordice's asserted opposition to gambling when he was elected in 1991. And now the tobacco "harvest," courtesy of Mike Moore.

Fordice's irrelevance as governor of Mississippi really began to manifest itself for the first time in 1993 when his veto of the 1-cent sales tax to stabilize education funding was overridden by the Legislature with the votes of a number of Republicans. Since then whatever Legislative proposals of consequence Fordice has made on his own have gotten nowhere in the Legislature.

Back last Spring when Fordice again decided to use the mighty veto pen on another major piece of legislation—the Adequate Education (Equity Funding) Act—once again lawmakers rose up and struck down his veto. Again despite a concerted effort to hold Republicans in line, a number of GOPers jumped the traces.

How the state spends the $3.6 billion it will get from the tobacco industry is now the paramount question to which everyone in Mississippi is anxiously awaiting an answer. Some have already mentioned to me: 1. Don't let Fordice get his hands on any of it, and 2. Don't give legislators a raise out of it.

Obviously it would be a terrible miscarriage of justice to give Kirk Fordice any say-so over how it is spent, and hopefully that won't happen.

Now with this new money, the state has a great opportunity to invest in a broad program to provide health care for the 400,000 Mississippians who now do not have either private health insurance nor can qualify for public programs. The least the state can do would be to immediately launch a health care plan for the 100,000 children in the state with no health protection.

Moore had suggested the latter route even before he made his separate Mississippi tobacco settlement for $3.6 billion.

Wouldn't it be poetic justice if the tobacco industry which for many years lured young people to get hooked on cigarettes would now have to foot the bill for health care for the young, and possibly older folks, out of its ill-gotten gains?

The Marlboro man is now redundant, as the British say, and so is his alter ego in Mississippi, Kirk Fordice.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

A Weekly Editorial
From Mississippi Economic Council

Make every education dollar count

Education is a wonderful thing.

Education is an expensive thing.

It takes 56.6 percent of all of the money coming into the General Fund to fund education in Mississippi. That's $1,669,080,081.

Or to put it another way, education takes every dime of the $1.1 billion collected in sales taxes plus every cent of the tobacco tax, the state's share of the auto tag and title fees, gaming taxes, use taxes, oil and gas severance taxes, whiskey, beer and wine revenues, interest income, plus another $6.8 million from other sources.

But there's more. That $1.6 billion is from the state's General Fund. Include federal and other special funding and the number jumps to $3.06 billion. And that's must at the state level. Additional taxes levied at the local level bring the total up another $700 million.

Despite these huge numbers Mississippi is struggling to keep pace with education enhancements that are taking place across the nation. The newly passed Adequate Education Act which will be phased in over six years will add even more to the spending total, but even that won't put Mississippi in line with others.

The sad fact is that Mississippi is the poorest state in the union and as much as we would like to instantly achieve parity with the nation that is an impossible dream. Our state's tax base and the ability of taxpayers to pay is less than other states.

Education isn't the only function of government. Costs are rising and increased funding requests are coming from other taxpayer funded programs.

Mississippi can't afford to spend less on education, but how much more we can spend is a question. What citizens do know, and must demand, is that every dime and every dollar be used efficiently.

Education is important, but also expensive.

We need to make sure every dollar counts.

Gulf Coast Symphony wins Art grants

The Mississippi Arts Commission recently awarded a grant of $5,600 to the Gulf Coast Symphony Orchestra Inc. for their youth concerts and master classes and a matching grant of $2,500 for organization assessment to support changed management structure.

The four youth concerts will be at 9 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. Jan. 29 and 30 with master classes in the afternoon.

"Commission grants support arts organizations and projects throughout the state," said Betsy Bradley, commission executive director.

"Through these grants, we work in partnerships with symphonies, boys and girls clubs, museums, art councils, and artists to create better schools, stronger communities and a more vibrant Mississippi.

"These grants proposals have been evaluated by panels of citizens from within the state and region to ensure a public benefit for the expenditure. We are confident that these project will create the opportunity for the public to participate in art programs throughout the state.

"More and more communities are looking to the arts for ways to solve pressing community problems. The arts can help to keep children in school and prepare them to enter the work force. They can help to attract businesses, medical and other professionals and tourists to local communities."

The Commission will grant more than $1.2 million in fiscal year 1998, with grants 171 being awarded in 45 counties.

The Mississippi Art Commission, established in 1969 by the Mississippi State Legislature, is the official grants making and service agency to the arts in Mississippi. Funding for the Commission and its programs is provided by the State of Mississippi and the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency.

Bay High School's Ken Matthew has been selected to coach the girls' south state team in this year's Coca-Cola All-Star soccer game Saturday, July 12 in Joe Rouse Stadium at Hinda Community College in Raymond.

"This means a lot to me. It's quite an honor," Matthew said. "I'm really looking forward to coaching these girls."

At one time or another Matthew has coached seven of the 14 girls on the team and is familiar with the others.

"We should have a well-balanced team, and we'll be looking to avenge last year's 1-0 loss to the north all-stars," Matthew was not the coach of that team.

This is only the second year girl teams have been allowed to participate in all-star competition and in state high school playoffs.

Matthew coaches the Bay High School boys and girls soccer teams and several recreational league teams. He guided both school teams to the state playoffs the past two years.

His Lady Tiger team finished last season with a record of 17-1-2, outscoring its opposition by a combined 81-7. The team's only loss was a 2-1 heartbreaker to Clinton in the semi-finals of the state play-offs, ending the season. The previous season the team reached the state championship game.

Three of his standout players from last year's team have been selected as south state all-stars. They are Michelle Perniciaro at forward, Rachel Perniciaro at full back and Jennifer Storey at mid-field.

Matthew's U-19 Division II girls team claimed the state championship this year. Five players from that team are also on the all-star squad. They are Erin Favre, who also played at Our Lady Academy, Storey from Bay High, Monica Deen from Harrison Central, Jaqueline McLaughlin and Kimberly Staup, both of Pascagoula.

Deen's soccer ability has earned her a four-year full scholarship to Mississippi College. Matthew has coached her since she was ten years old.

The Coast is also well represented on the boys' all-star south state team coached by Eva Glamser of Oak Grove and Pat Ross of Meridian. Bay High's David Flowers and Timmy Kingston, along with Robbie Morrison from St. Stanislaus are on that team.

The all-stars were all high school seniors this season and for most of them, this will be their last official game.

The girls' game starts at 6 p.m. and the boys' contest begins at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are $5 and are good for both games.

Youth age 12 and under, dressed in a complete soccer uniform and accompanied by a paying adult, get in free.

Soccer Tryouts

Makeup tryouts for South Mississippi Soccer Club's U-13 Division I team will be:

Thursday, July 17, 6-8 p.m.
Friday, July 18, 6-8 p.m.

State games are fun competition

BY JOSEPH W. GEE II

I recently had the privilege of being on the same field with some of Mississippi's greatest track athletes. This honor came by way of the State Games of Mississippi held in Meridian June 27-29.

The Games are an annual event now in their sixth year and I am glad to say that I have been a part of them for five out of the six years.

Most of Mississippi's greatest athletes are not the ones that we know by name; rather they are the ones that we have never heard of and probably never will hear of.

The State Games of Mississippi were started by the Meridian Division of Tourism six years ago to help promote Meridian and encourage all ages to participate in a healthy, competitive atmosphere. The games are open to anyone who lives in the state of Mississippi from the Gulf Coast to Olive Branch and from West Point to Indianola.

The track and field competition featured a few area athletes. Pat Kergosien of Bay St. Louis, won the gold medal in the pole vault for his age division. Wes Griffith, a senior at Bay High, won his age division pole vault competition. Elizabeth Spore, a senior at OLA, won her age division in the high jump.

The state games are not limited to just track and field but a variety of sports activities modeled after the Olympic Games. There is volleyball, baseball, tennis, archery, basketball, powerlifting, judo, swimming, soccer, softball, etc. There is definitely a sport for just about anyone.

Depending upon the sport, the state games feature all different age divisions. In track the age group starts with 6-under and goes all the way to 70 plus.

The track and field competition was held at Meridian Community College, home of the National Junior College Athletic Association outdoor track and field national champions.

When I arrived at the site about 8:30am, I was amazed at the complex. It was buzzing with athletes of all ages and sizes. I knew that I was in for a great day of track.

The complex is one of the nicest in the nation and brand new. However, as I looked beyond the newness of the stadium, I began to see what was really having an effect on me. In front of me, there was a high school girl's relay team practicing handoffs. Over to my left, there was a father instructing his six-year-old son on the proper running form for the 50-meter fun run for ages 6-under.

To my right, I caught a glimpse of a 15-year-old practicing his starts for the 110-meter high hurdles.

As I began to cross the track to head to my area, I heard someone yell "TRACK!!" That is the polite way to say, "Get out of the #%& way!"

It was a 73-year-old man named Sonny Oliphant from Philadelphia warming up for his first of four events that day. That event was the long jump and it just so happened that I would be doing the long jump the same time as him.

As I jumped back out of the way and regained my composure, I made my way over to the long jump pit to check in. After checking in, I began to put on my spikes and warm up. During that time, I watched the younger groups jump ahead of me. They were of all ages and sizes.

Some were tall and skinny while others were short and fat. As expected, there were some that leaped farther than others which resulted in some unhappy competitors. That just comes with the territory. In competition, there comes a time when one is not always on top.

There were fathers coaching sons as they walked back from the pit while the moms were proudly snapping pictures of their own little state champions. After a while, it became my turn to jump.

The person in charge of the pit referred to us as the "Over the Hill" gang. Our "gang" was made up of many different ages ranging from 19 to 70+. There were two people in my age bracket of 25-29, not including myself.

The order of jumping went from youngest to oldest, which meant that I had to watch some 20-year-old leap 22 feet. It was tough to watch knowing that I used to be able to leap that far before Father Time and bad knees caught up with me.

At any rate, it was my turn to go down the runway at a full sprint, drop my hip, explode off the board, soar through the air, and land oh-so softly in the sand. Next, it was time to literally pull myself from the pit and hear the distance shouted of "16 feet 11 inches!" I looked back at the person and said an emphatic "What!?"

As I trudged back to the resting place, I kept searching for an answer to this shocking result of my first long jump in over a year. I sat back and watched the older men run down the runway and leap for their best distances.

As I watched, I saw each of them get up out of the pit with a smile on their face as they listened to their distances being called out. They all knew that they had done better years before but now were just out here thankful to be competing and most of all, just having fun. They looked over to the stands where their wives were seated giving emphatic thumbs up, blowing kisses, and big wide grins.

The answer really hit me when I was watching Oliphant perform his long jump attempt. I watched as he ran down toward the pit, leaped, and fell to his side in the pit. The distance was 12-10. The people watching all clapped and leaped to their feet. Former Mississippi Olympian Willye White came running over to Oliphant and gave him a big hug as he smiled and waved to the crowd. He made his way back to the resting place to relax before his next jump.

As I stood up after my name was called for my second jump, I heard a familiar voice call my name. It was Ralph Boston, a four-time Olympian from Mississippi in the long jump. I had met Boston about four years ago at the state games. He saw that I was upset after my first jump and made it a point to tell me something before I jumped again. What he said had an effect on my next jump and will continue to have an effect in all competitions in the future. He told me, "Joe, just jump. That is all you have to do. This isn't a job. This is where you have fun."

Then he walked down to the end of the pit. I took his words to heart and let everything else go. All I did was jump.

As I got up out of the pit and the distance was called 18-3, Boston smiled at me and walked away. I smiled at myself, not because that would be my best jump of the day and it won the gold medal in my division, but because I had fun doing it.

Just after that jump, I spoke to White on my way back to the resting area. We were talking about what I did in track in my prime. I also told her what Boston had said just prior to my second jump. She stopped, looked me in the eye and stated, "Ralph (Boston) is right. Once you are an athlete, you will always be an athlete. It does not matter whether you are a part-time or full-time athlete. The only difference is you have to know when it is time to just have fun."

Some of us only dream of getting close enough to a professional athlete to shake their hand or even to just get a "Hello" out of them. Sometimes we even think that these people are untouchable or even some sort of a god.

However, I was fortunate enough to find out something different. These full-time athletes are just like you and me, except that their job is just a little different. They are not untouchable and they are not gods. They know, better than most of us, how to relax and just have fun.

I went ahead and took my last two jumps and did rather well. As each of the other participants took theirs, I watched intently and even shared a few laughs with them about our performances. I made sure that I spoke to Oliphant who helped me realize that it is all fun and games for us part-time athletes. It was his jump and his smile to the crowd that told me that it was now time for me to have fun.

I competed in the triple jump later that day and also won that event with a leap of 36-8. During that event, I made sure that I was warmed up, relaxed, and even had fun during my jumps.

efforts to extend the life of the Standard site.

A discussion on the future of the Standard rubbish site came at the end of an all-day monthly meeting of the Board of Supervisors only after the media asked Coward what happened to the resolutions.

Coward turned to board attorney Gerald Gex and said, "I left (the meeting with the school board) with the impression we would be giving some options to the school board."

She was interrupted by District 4 Supervisor Steve Seymour.

"We'll leave it just like it is — use the 41 acres. I don't want to get the land they don't want to sell to any other land," said Seymour.

"If that is the Board's decision, that's fine," said Coward. "I just want to bring this to closure. I just want some kind of decision."

Coward said she didn't like being put in the position of telling the Solid Waste District one thing, then later supervisors decide on another alternative.

After Seymour's observation, Gex said it looked like any further discussions between the school board and supervisors were in a state of suspension. District 1 Supervisor Jerry Ladner turned the debate around.

Ladner suggested the board draft a resolution offering several options.

"If they vote it down, we're through with it," said Ladner.

Seymour said in view of the fact that supervisors are looking for land in the better area for a construction rubbish site/landfill, and has three separate parties interested in offering them sites, "It's not good sense to buy any more land at Standard."

District 2 Supervisor Rocky Pullman argued, however, "What scares me is, we said we'd be in the buffer zone a year ago, but we're not there yet."

The arguments seemed to sway Seymour, and he and Gex began to suggest the wording of the resolution. After several attempts, the resolution that was passed by a 4-0 vote offered the school board three options. Board President Philip Moran abstained from voting.

Under Option 1, supervisors would extend the present lease on the 41 acres 25 years past the 2005 expiration date and offer to purchase 59 acres adjacent for a rubbish site only.

The state Department of Environmental Quality recently ruled the 41 acres is nearing capacity, and said the county can continue dumping there, but by July 15, certain items must be sorted out, stored in a temporary container, then trucked to a landfill.

Setting up a transfer station at Standard is viewed as costly by the Solid Waste District, since Trans-American Waste of Mississippi — which operates the rubbish site — said it will have to double its monthly fee from $5,000 to $10,000, and there would be additional monthly charges for a roll-off container and for trucking out the Class I products.

Under Option 2, supervisors would extend the lease on the 41 acres and offer to purchase 20 adjacent acres or up to 100 acres. This would extend the life of the Standard site since the new area could accept Class I and Class II rubbish, and some items would not have to be trucked out.

Under Option 3, supervisors offered to purchase the existing 41 acres contingent upon being able to purchase an additional 59 adjacent acres for a Class I and II rubbish site. This alternative would have also allowed expansion of the current rubbish site, and no costly transfer of materials would have been necessary.

Board

voted them into office, said Fillingame.

The board's action came swiftly after supervisors met Monday morning, and faced a resolution in time for school board members to consider three options when they met Monday night.

School Board member Larry Peterson made a motion, seconded by Tony Caston to approve supervisors' Option 1. It would have extended the lease on the current 41 acres for 25 years past the 2005 expiration date, and would have sold an additional 59 adjacent acres in order that Standard might continue accepting Class I and Class II rubbish.

The vote failed 1-4 with Peterson for, Caston voting against, along with board President Cheryl Bennett, Billie Lyons and Lynette Neece.

Peterson and Caston then motioned to vote on Option 2. This would have extended the lease on the present 41 acres, and given the county the option to buy from 20 to 100 adjacent acres in order to extend the life of the rubbish site. All members voted no to this option.

On another roll call vote, Option 3 was rejected by another 4-1 vote with Peterson casting the only yes. This option would have allowed the county to take title to the present 41 acres, contingent on the school board selling the county an additional 59 acres for rubbish only.

Peterson and Caston then teamed up to offer another alternative not spelled out by supervisors: Extend the lease on the present 41 acres, and allow the county to purchase 20 additional acres. Several conveyance contingencies would be attached to the deed, however.

The motion failed by a 3-2 vote with Bennett, Lyons and Neece against.

The resounding no vote puts to rest forever the future fate of the Standard rubbish site. Even with its downgrading, DEQ estimates the present site will last only a few years more.

It also puts the county in a precarious situation since the hurricane season has begun, and Civil Defense Director Bobby Boudin is scurrying to find temporary dumping sites for rubbish in the event a storm strikes the area this year.

Further down the line, the downgrading at Standard might pinch residents' pocket books.

The monthly cost to sort out some rubbish, temporarily store it in a special container, then truck it to a landfill will exceed $10,000 a month.

Fillingame warned there is enough revenue to fund the operations and household garbage pickup through Sept. 30, but after that, the city might have to be linked to keep the District on a sound financial footing.

Favre was given authority to advertise for bids on the first two major drainage projects which are part of the capital improvements plan.

The city still must obtain easements for portions of the projects, including some from CSX Railroad. However, Favre said it will take approximately 45 days to advertise for the projects, during which time the city will continue working on obtaining the easements.

The first project involves the Spanish Acres area. The second project involves areas in Wards 2, 3 and 4 running from Ballentine Street to the Depot area and then out to the beach.

A resolution was passed authorizing the formation of a 13-member advisory board to spearhead the creation and adoption of a historic preservation ordinance.

Favre and the council members will each appoint two members to the board with the president of the Hancock County Historical Society also serving as a member.

Favre unveiled the preliminary sketch of the new Ullman Avenue Pier which will be constructed with Tideland Funds money.

Plans call for 700 feet of new construction which will replace the beginning of the existing pier and tie into it at the end. As more funds become available, the new construction will be extended until the existing pier is totally replaced.

The new pier will be 10 feet wide, handicap accessible and feature concrete pilings with wood decking and six lighted gazebo type rest areas with benches.

The price tag on the completed project will be $1 million. Favre said construction would begin during the winter when the pier is less utilized and is expected to last about 80 days.

Two residents appeared before the council to voice concerns and complaints over recurring drainage problems. Favre informed them of the city's schedule on the drainage projects which he anticipates will alleviate much of the problems.

Mississippi Electric has awarded the bid on the Highway 90 lighting with a low bid of $10,224.

Pass

McDonald ticked off several accomplishments in his two-year tenure, including the paving of 10 miles of road and the refurbishing of the harbor. The city has already received $425,000 in Tideland funding for the harbor project and will receive another $300,000 in the fall.

Improvements have included the paving of the parking lot and structural and utility improvements to the harbor. The clearing of sunken boats is an on-going project.

McDonald said the paving and Tideland money could not have come without the help of the Harrison County Board of Supervisors and state legislators.

"By working closely with each other, we can get things done," he said.

McDonald had inherited a city on the brink of financial ruin. At the time, the city's finances were being monitored by the state auditor after some questions about previous spending.

McDonald said the city has made financial strides but warned "we are not out of the woods yet. We still face some financial problems, but we are working on them."

"We will not spend money we don't have," he added. "We will stay within our budget and our means. I think that's the way you want it done with your tax dollar."

"We have a long way to go, but we will get there," McDermott, a Republican, was the only new board member to be inaugurated. He defeated three-term Democratic incumbent Gene Rogers for the city's at-large seat.

The diversified board, which includes two women and an African-American, held its first meeting under the new term on Tuesday night.

conomic development."

Anderson said one drawback to Coleman Avenue is that there is no direct access to Highway 90. However, alderman Tommy Longo said if the area is attractive enough, "people will find it."

She said she would like into the possibility of grants and tax abatements for anyone interested in developing businesses along Coleman Avenue.

Mayor John Mason admitted the area is not "bring in much tax revenue now."

In other matters:

After a year in the planning stages, city officials finally adopted a fireworks ordinance that will ban the unsightly fireworks tents that pop up three times a year.

The ordinance states that fireworks may be sold only from permanent structures, and can only be sold in specific time periods preceding New Year's Day, Fourth of July and Labor Day.

The law will go into effect for Labor Day.

Domino's Pizza franchisee celebrates 30th anniversary

Domino's Pizza franchisee, Richard P. Mueller, founder and CEO of RPM Pizza, Inc. of Gulfport, is celebrating his 30th anniversary with Domino's Pizza. Thomas S. Monaghan, founder of Domino's Pizza Inc., will speak at the managers meeting to honor the long-term commitment of Mueller.

After the meeting, Mueller and Monaghan will hold a question-and-answer session for the media. The session will be July 16 at 10:30 a.m. at the Holiday Inn Holiday. The Holiday Inn is located at 9940 Airline Hwy. in Baton Rouge, La. 70816.

Mueller, who started his career as a delivery driver, now owns the largest franchise of Domino's Pizza in North America. In 1967, he began delivering pizzas for Monaghan as a student at the University of Michigan.

He delivered pizzas and worked inside the store part-time for three years while attending college as an engineering student. In 1970, he purchased 49 percent of his first store in Michigan. After selling his share to the Michigan store back to Domino's Pizza in 1971, Mueller purchased 49 percent of the first of 60 stores he would own in Ohio.

In 1981, Mueller created RPM Pizza, Inc. He sold his stock back to Domino's Pizza for the franchise rights to Mississippi and Louisiana. His brother, Glenn Mueller, became his partner.

RPM Pizza Inc. grew from three stores to 16 stores in the first year. In 1983, Richard and Glenn Mueller opened RPMPI's world headquarters in Gulfport and incorporated extensive training programs for all RPMPI store team members. Strong operations and training have always been a primary goal of RPMPI.

After adding New Jersey, New York and West Germany to his list of territories, Mueller's application to franchise on the Moon was turned down by Domino's Pizza Inc. in 1986.

By 1989, RPMPI opened a location inside the Louisiana Superdome and won the National "Big Red" Award for the most number of stores for the eighth consecutive year.

The 1990's started with rapid acquisitions of 71 Chicago area stores. Southern store sales exploded. Soon after, RPMPI sold the Chicago and Michigan stores.

In 1994, the New York and New Jersey stores were sold and the company concentrated on its Southeast markets. RPMPI continued to improve operations and began implementing computers to provide better customer service.

With the help and recommendations of Mueller, Domino's Pizza has now begun to upgrade its image with new store designs and team uniforms. This past May, Mueller received the most prestigious award in the Domino's Pizza system — The Gold Franchise Award.

The award is earned by franchisees who demonstrate store sales above regional trends, average "back to school" scores at or above bronze level, and participate in co-op meetings and community service. This is Mueller's second Gold Franchise Award. He received the first in 1992.

Today RPMPI owns 141 Domino's Pizza stores in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Arkansas and employs 2,700 people in store operations and office positions. This franchise earned sales of $77 million in 1996 and has contributed over $1 million to charities and community projects over the years.

Domino's Pizza Inc. was founded in 1960 by Thomas S. Monaghan and is recognized as the world leader in pizza delivery. In 1996, sales reached $2.8 billion. Domino's Pizza, with more than 1,200 franchisees, operates 5,600 stores in 55 international markets.

NOTICE OF BOND SALE
NEGOTIABLE NOTE
SERIES 1997

HANCOCK COUNTY, MISSISSIPPI
Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, Mississippi (the "Governing Body") of the County, in its meeting place in the Courthouse of the County, in the City of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi until the hour of 10:00 o'clock a.m. on July 22, 1997, at which time said bids will be publicly opened and read for the purchase in its entirety, at not less than par and accrued interest to the date of delivery thereof of an issue of a Sixty Four Thousand Dollars ($64,000) principal amount Negotiable Note, Series 1997, of the County (the "Note").

The Note will be delivered on the date of delivery thereof, will be delivered in the denomination of Sixty Four Thousand Dollars ($64,000), will be numbered R-1; will be issued in fully registered form; and will bear interest from the date thereof at the rate of interest specified in the Note in its bid, payable annually on the anniversary date of the date of issuance (each an "Interest Payment Date"). The Note will mature in five approximate equal payments of twelve percent (12%) per annum. The Note is being issued for the purpose of furnishing and equipping a County building.

The Note is subject to redemption prior to its stated date of maturity at any time, plus accrued interest to the date of redemption.

The County will appoint the Paying and Transfer Agent for the Note after receiving the recommendation of the successful bidder. The Paying and Transfer Agent shall be a bank or trust company located within the State of Mississippi or the Chancery Clerk of the County. The Paying Agent and/or Transfer Agent shall be subject to change by order of the Governing Body under the conditions and in the manner provided in the Note Resolution under which the Note is issued. The successful bidder must deliver to the Transfer Agent within thirty (30) days after the date of issuance, or such other later date as may be designated by the County, the name and address of the Registered Owner of the Note. If the successful bidder fails to submit such information to the Transfer Agent by the required time, one note may be issued in the full amount maturing on the date registered in the name of the successful bidder.

Both principal of and interest on the Note will be payable by check or draft mailed on the Interest Payment Date to the Registered Owner of the Note as of the 15th day preceding the maturity date for such principal or interest payment at the address appearing in the registration records of the County maintained by the Transfer Agent. Payment of principal at the final maturity shall be conditioned on the presentation and surrender of the Note at the principal office of the Transfer Agent. The Purchaser will purchase the Note as an investment for its own account and not with a view toward distribution or resale in the capacity of a note holder, broker, or interest.

The Note will be transferable only upon the records of the County maintained by the Transfer Agent. The Note shall not be a greater overall maximum interest rate to maturity than eleven percent (11%) per annum, and shall mature in the amounts and on the dates hereinafter set forth; shall bear interest from its date to its stated maturity date at the interest rate specified in the Note; shall bear the same rate of interest from date to maturity. The County will levy annually a special tax on the taxable property within the geographical limits of the County adequate and sufficient to provide for the payment of the principal of and the interest on the Note as the same falls due. Each bid must be accompanied by a cashier's check, certified check, or exchange, issued or certified by a bank located in the State of Mississippi, payable to Hancock County, Mississippi, in the amount of One Thousand Two Hundred Eighty Dollars ($1,280.00) as a guarantee that the bidder will carry out its contract and purchase the Note if its bid is accepted. If the successful bidder fails to purchase the Note pursuant to its bid and contract, then the amount of such good faith check shall be retained by the County as liquidated damages for such failure. No interest will be allowed on the amount of the good faith deposit. All checks of unsuccessful bidders will be immediately returned to the bidder. All proposals shall remain firm for three hours after the time specified for the opening of proposals and an award of the Note, or rejection of proposals, will be made by the County and its decision shall be final.

The award, if any, will be made to the bidder complying with the terms of sale and offering to purchase the Note at the lowest net interest cost to the County. The net interest cost will be the sum of the interest cost plus the cost of the Note over the life of the issue at the rate of interest specified by the bidder, less premium offered, if any. It is requested that each proposal be accompanied by a statement of the net interest cost computed to six decimal places, but such statement will not be considered a part of the proposal.

The Governing Body reserves the right to reject any and all bids submitted and to waive any irregularity or informality.

A copy of said approving legal opinion will appear on or accompany the Note.

SECTION 22. The Clerk shall obtain from the publisher of the aforesaid newspaper the customary publisher's affidavit proving publication of the Notice for the time and in the manner required by law, and such proof of publication shall be filed in the Clerk's office and exhibited before the Governing Body at the hour and date aforesaid.

Based on the foregoing, the Note will be exempt from the continuing disclosure requirements of Rule 15c (2)(12).
